"The Burgomaster" is filling the Colonial theater nightly. The musical comedy is a delightful one, the music is tuneful and catchy. It will run the week,

Miss Alberta Dersham, assisted by Miss Jean Clifton, will give a planoforte recital at the First Congregational church Tues-day evening, May 4.

Daniel Sully's new piay, "The Matchmaker," in which he will appear at the Colonial theater all next week, beginning Sunday evening, May 3, is a comedydrama in three acts, by Jerroid Shepard, The play was written expressly for Mr. Sully, and the character of Father Daly fits him perfectly. It is remarkable for its dramatic strength, eleverness of construction and the richness and abundance of its comedy, as well as fidelity to nature of its character drawing.

There is a very fine bill on at the Orpheum. It opens with Minnie Kaufmann, a very pretty and graceful lady bleyelist. Then there is Fanny Rice and her miniature stage. "Six Little Girls and a Teddy Bear," a melange of singing and dancing; the eight Kitabanzais, the most wonderful troupe of Japanese acrobats ever seen here; Chinko, the wonderful juggler, and a number of other headline acts.

Another big audience, the third of the week greeted McEwen at the Grand on Tuesday night. The escape from over fifty feet of chain locked with a number of Tale locks, and the escape from the box which was built on the stage in the presence of a committee from the audience, completely mystified the audience. A matinee will be given this afternoon. Tomorrow night there will be an entire change of programme. The engagement will close Saturday night.

It has been a long time since any theater in Salt Lake has presented such an attraction as the lecture of Warren E. Gilbert on the Messina carthquake, which runs at the Lyric until Friday. Mr. Gilbert is a born entertainer and he has a subject that holds his audience spell-bound. Last night the Lyric was crowded to the doors, the people having been drawn to hear him.

How Oregon Got Its Name.

How Oregon Got Its Name.

We believe it most probable that the name of Oregon arose out of some circumstance connected with Western explorations under direction of the French. Earlier than the English, the French had pressed on westward from the great lakes to the Red River, to the Saskatchewan and to the foot of the Rocky mountains. They were ranging the country of the upper Mississippi in search of furs and for trade with the natives; they were full of curiosity and active in inquiry about the great distant West and the unknown western sea. Of this sea they possessed Spanish charts and probably used among the haltves the word 'Aragon,' as a homonym of Spain. When Jonathan Carver, of Connecticut, was on his expedition to the upper Mississippi country in 1767-1768, he made all possible inquiries, he tells us, about the country toward the west, the western river and the sea and the word 'Oregon,' and the name was written for the first time, so far as we now know, or possibly can ever know, in Carver's book, published in London in 1778. It is a book of little importance or value, except for the fact that it gives to the world the name of Oregon, which Carver shook is made up of unacknowledged extracts from Freich explorers before him, particularly from Hennepin, Lahontan and Charlevolx, and as Carver had no scholarship it is believed the book was compiled in London, partly from Carver's book tribes of Indians and various objects are offen designated by French names or terms.—Portland Oregonian.
